We have a standard process of web development. Following a detailed website design and development process can speed up our work and help our client understand our role in the project.

First we need requirements analysis. This includes client goals, target audience, detailed feature requests and as much relevant information as client can possibly gather. We recommend a site map as a structure finding information. Next designing mock-ups based on requirements analysis. We will create two or more prototype designs for your website. In this phase, communication between both we and client is crucial to ensure that the final website will match client needs and taste. Then development involves the bulk of the programming work. We test and verify links and functionality. Finally delivery.
